

Dear FCC,

Please note my insistence that the FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. As an Indiana citizen who has witnessed the fantastic results of the Indiana Telephone Privacy law since its implementation, I impart you to please not to pre-empt the Indiana Telephone Privacy law with watered down language.

I have witnessed a dramatic change in the quality of life in my Indiana residence since implementation of Indiana's Telephone Privacy law. In one six month period I only received ONE unsolicited phone call when I previously received 4 to 5 PER DAY.

Indiana's law has made it possible for me to enjoy a peaceful dinner at home each evening without harassment from people and computer generated dialings that consistently mispronounce my name and ask me to buy something I don't want.

Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has demonstrated to Indiana citizens that the government CAN do things to help the quality of life for its citizens. There are no valid 1st ammendment claims by those who want to hawk me their wares. Please note that diminishing Indiana's Telephone Privacy law will diminish my quality of life as well as that of my fellow citizens. Well over 1 Million Indiana Citizens signed up for Indiana Privacy protection under the Indiana law in its first year - we have enjoyed a collective gasp of relief from the hounding by phone solicitors! Please help our relief and trust in government continue. Do not implement a proposal that will in any way deteriorate Indiana's current Telephone Privacy law.
